First Full Week Complete

The first full week was productive and students worked hard to keep up with the faster pace we move at here in 3rd grade. Good job to them on their hard work and positive behavior.

We started switching between all 3rd grade classes on Monday. Students did well with this transition and seem to enjoy the fresh faces in their other classrooms.

Handwriting: We continue to work on improving our manuscript skills.

Math: Students are working with Mrs. Allison and Mr. Peterman on place value concepts and learning to write numbers in expanded, standard, and word form.

Science: We were able to do some fun science projects this week to start off science. We started our plant unit and we are working on a journal to organize the information we learn.

Language:

Self-Selected: Students need to be carefully reading books. We have a tight schedule at school with little time for extra reading, so in order to stay on track reading at home is important.

Guided Reading: We will read the story, The Ballad of Mulan and make inferences. At the end of the week students will watch Mulan and compare the story and the movie.

Spelling: Please ensure that the weekly packet remains in the Homework Folder all week and comes back completed on Friday.

Writing: We will work on a friendly letter from the perspective of Mulan to her father.
